THREE ORGANIZATIONS. ONE GOAL.

A PARTNERSHIP INSPIRED BY OUR COMMUNITY'S HEALTH AND WELLNESS.

A new era in community health and wellness begins this summer in Fort Collins. A partnership between the City of Fort Collins Recreation Department, Columbine Health Systems (Columbine) and University of Colorado Health (UCHealth) will create a unique and comprehensive public health and wellness program housed at the Fort Collins Senior Center.

The recently expanded Senior Center will feature new health and wellness programs provided exclusively by two highly regarded local healthcare leaders. Columbine is the Program Manager, serving the Senior Center. In collaboration with UCHealth, mutual strengths of existing programs, new offerings, and shared resources will be a focus.

Health and wellness programmatic offerings will be placed into three broad categories to meet the needs and interests of members of the Senior Center and the local community, those categories include: Health Awareness, Lifestyle Management, and Wellness & Education.

UNIVERSITY

ENHANCING A TRADITION OF SERVICE

The City of Fort Collins Recreation Department provides recreational opportunities throughout the community. The Department serves all ages, abilities, and skills with programs at the Senior Center focused on community members who are 50 years of age or older. The Fort Collins Senior Center is a multipurpose facility that provides adults access to diverse recreational programs.

The Senior Center opened to the public in 1995 and quickly became an important part of our community's recreational and social landscape. The Senior Center's $6.8 million expansion features outstanding new health and wellness amenities and spaces. The expansion enables Recreation to provide a broad range of health and wellness services and programs.

Recognizing the value of community collaboration, Recreation, Columbine Health Systems and UCHealth have launched a partnership that will enhance health and wellness offerings and increase opportunities. This partnership will benefit the community and have a direct effect on the community's health.

The programs provided through this partnership will address our community's needs while responding to the lifestyles of a growing population. Many older adults are active and health-minded. This population realizes the value of health and wellness and understands that Recreation's goal is to provide opportunities to help them remain healthy.

LEADERS IN HEALTH & WELLNESS

Columbine Health Systems and University of Colorado Health (UCHealth) are local leaders in community health and wellness. A shared focus on health and wellness drives their dedication throughout the community.

Decades of experience and access to top health and wellness experts provides both organizations a strong foundation to create and deliver high quality programs.

Combining strengths and sharing resources will ensure health and wellness programs offered at the Senior Center will benefit the community and will appeal to a growing population.

Columbine and UCHealth believe community health and wellness is a priority. They chose to partner with Recreation to further support their ability to serve the public and help create a healthier community.

In collaboration with the City of Fort Collins Recreation Department, Columbine, and UCHealth will develop a wide variety of accessible health and wellness programs for adults. This community partnership will enable Recreation to increase service levels and enhance offerings while utilizing the expertise of Columbine and UCHealth. All three organizations will cooperate to build a solid, community inspired health and wellness program that benefits the community.

This exciting partnership will allow us the ability to innovate and redefine health and wellness for the citizens of northern Colorado together. We believe that agility, thoughtful planning, customer feedback, and then adjusting course to pro actively meet market needs will move us forward into a successful future.

A Commitment to Health and Wellness

Meet Diane Horak Health and Wellness Program Manager

Diane has ten years of experience in the Health and Wellness business. Beginning her career as a Personal Trainer at Miramont Lifestyle Fitness, she quickly became certified in nutrition and weight loss counseling. After working as a Wellness Manager and Director at Miramont, Diane began her career with Columbine Health Systems in 2007 as a Wellness Coordinator. While at that position, in addition to corporate and workplace wellness, Diane earned her Fitness Therapy Certification and began to help those (particularly 50+) who required specific wellness strategies to regain or attain their health.

Diane is married to Todd and they have two sons. One studies dance at Butler University in Indianapolis, and the other is a mechanical engineering major at CSU and is on the track team. A very large two year old golden retriever rounds out the family.

Three Organizations....

ONE GOAL!

A Partnership Inspired by Our Community's Health and Wellness

UNIVERSITY
of COLORADO HEALTH

City Of Fort Collins Recreation

ENHANCING A TRADITION OF SERVICE

- The Senior Center opened to the public in 1995 and quickly became an important part of our community's recreational and social landscape.
- The Senior Center's $6.8 million expansion features outstanding new health and wellness amenities and spaces.
- The expansion enables Recreation to provide a broad range of health and wellness services and programs.

Columbine Health and University of Colorado Health

LEADERS IN HEALTH & WELLNESS

- Columbine Health Systems and University of Colorado Health (UCHealth) are local leaders in community health and wellness. A shared focus on health and wellness drives their dedication throughout the community.
- Combining strengths and sharing resources will ensure health and wellness programs offered at the Senior Center will benefit the community and will appeal to a growing population.
