

Storytelling at Bobcat Ridge Natural Area

Did you know the trails at Bobcat Ridge are named after the former owners, D.R. and Ginny Pulliam? One year, as a birthday surprise, Ginny had a narrow dirt road built to Mahoney Park — one of the couple's favorite spots. D.R. was so pleased he immediately named the new route for his wife. Today, visitors enjoy the reconstructed Ginny and D.R. trails, which connect in Mahoney Park.

After learning about the story of the trails here at Bobcat Ridge Natural Area, what's a story you could create about your own family's history? What inanimate object like a trail could you use as a metaphor for your story? Feel free to write in a short story-style or a poem.
